Hi, Ray,

I have attached Ophir's bio.

The university's computer policies are located and can be easily accessed at http://ots.iit.edu/policies.

OTS is also a presenter at the new student orientations, during which OTS staff discuss IIT's computer policies. There is time available for questions, should any of the students wish to know more about these policies. Ophir is a presenter at the new faculty orientation during which he mentions IIT's Use of Computer Resources Policy and the policies and procedures for addition or removal of lab software.

Before anyone at IIT can access IIT's network, he/she must agree to IIT's Use of Computer Resources Policy.

IIT's computer policies are also referenced, together with a link, in the student handbook at https://web.iit.edu/student-affairs/handbook/fine-print/policies-regulations-and-procedures.

The IIT Code of Conduct explains that violations of computer policies are subject to discipline. https://web.iit.edu/student-affairs/handbook/fine-print/code-conduct

This Fall we will be providing User Guides targeted to students, faculty and staff that will point each group in the direction of IIT's computer policies.

I hope this information is helpful.

Regards,

Chris
